UK Outlook for Wednesday 7 Apr 2021 to Friday 16 Apr 2021:
Towards the start of this period we will see a shift from the recent warm and settled weather, with conditions turning wintry and colder for all. A mixture of sunny spells and showers remains likely at first, though cold conditions mean that some of these outbreaks will have some wintriness to them, especially in the north. Furthermore, strong winds are expected for some areas at first, particularly towards northern regions, though easing later. After this, conditions are likely to turn drier, starting in the west. Temperatures look to be largely below average for this time of year, with notable overnight frosts developing throughout. There is a possibility that temperatures will lift nearer to average later.
